

Recommendation Form

Dear Referee,

The NIH-funded program "Big Data in Biomedical Informatics" (BD2BMI) is a training program offered jointly by CityTech-CUNY and Weill Cornell Medicine (WCM) of Cornell University. BD2BMI will enhance diversity in biomedical data science, by instructing, training, and mentoring undergraduate students in the use of cutting edge Big Data methods in biomedical data sciences.

Students accepted into BD2BMI will receive financial compensation for participating in training activities and in a research internship opportunity at Cornell University. We are recruiting students with the academic maturity, motivation, and commitment needed to succeed in this fast-paced field. Thank you in advance for completing this form to support the student's application to BD2BMI.
